EXPECT OSBORN TO MODIFY ORDER

Commissioner May Not Insist on Rigid Safeguards Demanded by Cabell.

VISITS DISTILLING PLANT

New Revenue Head Spends Day in Richmond, but Declines to Talk Politics.

Important modifications of former Commissioner Cabell's requiring distilling plants to install certain protective appliances, are expected as the result of the visit to the city yesterday of Commissioner of Internal Revenue, W. H. Osborn. The commissioner arrived in the city Sunday night from Greensboro, and in the company of Revenue Agent W. H. Chapman and other revenue officers, inspected yesterday morning the plant of the Stony Creek Distilling Company.

The order under consideration was issued by Mr. Cabell shortly before stepping out of office, and directed among other things the locking of valves in the pipes leading from fermenters to stills. Other requirements of a protective nature were included in the same order, the effect of which would have been to make impossible a transfer from fermenter to beer well without the knowledge of the government gauger in charge, to permit the installation of a distilling plant in the district served by the order.

Distillers in the Eastern District of Virginia regarded the order as a needless intervention and one involving expense and delay. They are endeavoring to have the order modified so that it would not apply on May 1 for a renewal of bond, and the local revenue office faced a general shutdown with a shrinkage of $5,000 in daily receipts.

Osborn Postpones Order.

The shutdown was partially averted by a telegram from Commissioner Osborn to Collector Lowry on April 30, directing the local office to grant every application for a renewal of bond on condition that the applicant put into effect the provisions of the Cabell order within thirty days. This temporarily vacated the Cabell order, the provisions of which would have had to be observed as a condition of being allowed to renew bond. Following the order of April 30, three distillers renewed their bonds and resumed operations. The other plants in the district are still closed.

Commissioner Osborn yesterday, after inspecting the Stony Creek plant and impressed with the necessity of insisting on the rigid safeguards required by the order. It is extremely probable that it will be modified in important respects before the thirty-day post-mortem expires.

The three distilleries now in operation are the Stony Creek and Old Dominion, of this county, and the Diamond, of Norfolk County. The Chesterfield Distilling Company is closed down by the order. The other plants are waiting for the order to be modified.

Commissioner Osborn declared himself pleased with the local situation as to the conduct of the revenue business in this city. He said he had no intention of taking politics into the collector's fight, which, if common report is to be credited, is warm in the district. He said he had no intention of taking politics into the collector's fight, which, if common report is to be credited, is warm in the district.

"I am just here on a tour of inspection," said Commissioner Osborn to a reporter for The Times-Dispatch. "This morning I saw a distillery for the first time in my life. That may sound strange, but it is a fact. My work in recent years has been in the Kelley Institute, fighting the abuse of whiskey, and I am learning now for the first time how it is manufactured. However, I know all about tobacco, and will shortly make a tour of chief tobacco factories of the country, as well as the oleo factories."

THREATEN STRIKE

Police Arrest Two Negro Agitators and Stop Factory Work. The arrest of two negro women yesterday morning at the Federal Cigar Company, Whitlock Branch, Twenty-fourth Street, caused a strike of the cigar workers, who are said to have become displeased with a foreman. The two negroes—Alberta Scott and Josephine Smith—were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct. Sergeant Shepard and Patrolmen Spurr and Hertsch were detailed for special duty at the factory yesterday.

Const. Line Not Involved. An error was committed in stating that the Atlantic Coast Line was the owner of the roads required by the order of the State Corporation Commission Friday to put in effect the new low rates for the transportation of ground limestone. This railroad showed that it had previously complied with the desire of the petitioners.

The First Nation

To produce bank notes was the Empire of China. They were printed in blue ink on paper made from the fibre of the mulberry tree. In most essential they were like the modern bank note, bearing the name of the bank, the date of issue, the number of the note, the signature of the official issuing it, words and pictorial representations of coins or heaps of coins equal in amount to the full value of the note. They contained a motto, one which it is well to remember, and which the

J. S. MOORE LEFT MANY BEQUESTS

Will Admitted to Probate, Estate Being Valued at $148,559.

MANY CHARITIES GET HELP

Home for Incurables and Sheltering Arms Hospital Among Beneficiaries.

The will of Josiah Staunton Moore, a well-known merchant of Richmond, has been admitted to probate in the Chancery Court, the estate being valued at $148,559. The will leaves to his wife, Jane Ellen Moore, all of the household and personal furniture, books, pictures, silver, etc., in the family residence at 2209 East Broad Street. A bequest of $1,000 is made to the trustees of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Diocese of Virginia, to be invested and the interest be used for the relief of the poor of St. John's Church. The Protestant Episcopal Church Home, the Virginia Home for Incurables and the Sheltering Arms Hospital each receive bequests of $1,000. A bequest of $100 is made to his chauffeur, Thomas Ellington, and of $50 each to Nancy Polindexter and Mary Jackson, house servants.

To each of his seven children there is left $5,000. In case his grandson, James Staunton Moore, decides by the time he is sixteen years old to enter a profession, the trustees of the estate are authorized to expend $2,000 on his college education, and if he is awarded a college diploma by the time he is twenty-four years of age, he is given a further bequest of $3,000, neither bequest to be paid if he decides not to enter a profession, or abandons his college course before its completion.

To Hold Estate In Trust.

The residue of the estate, after all bequests, amounting to approximately $100,000, is left to his seven children and share alike, the estate to be held together by the trustees for a period of twenty-one years. During his lifetime, his wife is to receive an income from the estate of $200 per month. His daughter-in-law, Mollie Yeager Moore, widow of his son, William Moore, is to have from the estate an income of $100 during her life, or until she marries again. The residuary of the estate, after the death of Mrs. Moore, is to be divided among the children of Mr. Moore, who are appointed executors, it being specified that in the case of the death of either, or of their resignation or failure to serve, the residuary of the estate is to be substituted. The will is dated September 30, 1912, and is in the handwriting of Mr. Moore. Having no witnesses, his handwriting is attested by a disinterested party by Fred H. Powell and O. H. Parrish.

A codicil provides that his gold watch shall go to his son, Ernest; his pocket watch and buttons and uniform to his son Richmond; and to his son James, "who has shown more interest in the Lost Cause than any of his sons," is bequeathed his Confederate Cross. The residuary of the estate, after the death of Mrs. Moore, is to be divided among the children of Mr. Moore, who are appointed executors, it being specified that in the case of the death of either, or of their resignation or failure to serve, the residuary of the estate is to be substituted. The will is dated September 30, 1912, and is in the handwriting of Mr. Moore.

MUCH FRUIT SAFE IN SPITE OF FROST

Apples May Make Fair Crop. Tobacco Planting Now Being Pushed.

While much damage was done to the fruit crop in Virginia by recent freezing weather, reports that have reached the office of Commissioner Kolner, of the Department of Agriculture, indicate that there will still be a good sized crop. Some late varieties were not sufficiently advanced to be entirely killed by the frost, while in other places the damage seems not to have been so great.

In some of the big orchards, the expedient of burning oil was resorted to. Thousands of barrels of crude oil were burned in the effort to save the apples. Peaches are pretty well cleaned up.

The freeze seems to have been worse west of the Blue Ridge than in the counties to the east. Still, some of the growers, even in the Valley of Virginia, hope for a fair sized crop. Some damaged apples do not drop until late in the season, and it is sometimes called "the June drop," so that the extent of injury cannot be entirely known at this time.

Tobacco planting was begun in earnest yesterday morning all over Southside Virginia. Men were astir long before daybreak, taking advantage of the exceedingly favorable conditions that followed the rain. Everybody who could work was pressed into service.

GANS-RADY COMPANY

AGREE TO OPEN GRACE STREET

City and Richmond College Reach Settlement on Improvement.

A practical agreement for the opening of Grace Street through the Richmond College tract was reached yesterday afternoon at a conference between a subcommittee of the Council Committee, Chairman T. C. Williams, Jr., of the college committee on finance, and J. Taylor Ellison, of the board of trustees. The college is to dedicate the necessary land for the opening of Grace Street from Ryland Street, with parallel alleys between Grace and Franklin and Franklin and Broad Streets, and to waive all claims for damages when the streets and alleys are graded. The city agrees to grade Grace Street, to lay curbing and asphalt block paving and to supply the street with sewerage, gas and water mains, to lay out the alleys, sidewalks, when supplied, and to be at expense of abutting property owners, as in the case of other property throughout the city.

The city agrees to develop the first 320 feet west from Ryland Street at once, in order that the college may market lots, the remainder when the college moves to Westhampton. President Ellison explained that it was proposed to transfer Richmond Academy to the Broad Street dormitory building, thus retaining the Broad Street frontage for educational purposes for the present, but the remainder of the tract will become subject to taxation when marketed, as will the present site of Richmond Academy and other property belonging to the college. The amount of the college's athletic fields, the initial cost of the city will be about $8,000, and the total cost of the improvements about $19,000. Even without the Broad Street frontage, the tract will yield the city from $10,000 to $12,000 a year in taxes.

After an hour's debate, the proposition narrowed down to the option of doing the work now and so adding the college to the city, or allowing the college to merely dedicate Grace Street, and sell lots, in which event all of the improvements asked for would no doubt be made out of the general appropriations, as other improvements are being made throughout the city, wherever the taxable values justify the outlay.

WILL IS VALID

Jury in Chancery Court Sustains Requests of John R. Morien.

After a trial lasting several days, a jury in the Chancery Court yesterday sustained the will of John R. Morien. The will was made by John F. Howell and others, and involves an estate valued at about $400. Under the terms of the will now held to be a valid one, the personal property of the testator is left to his niece, Mary E. Morien, and all of his real estate is left to his son, John R. Morien. John F. Pyne has been appointed executor under the will.

Sales, and Frederick Southern, who lives in the adjoining house at 219 South Street. The announcement of the wedding came as a surprise to the friends of the couple. After a trip in the South the young couple will be at home to friends here.

MANY DEATHS DUE TO CARELESSNESS

Dr. Davis, of Red Cross Society, Tells Boy Scouts How to Care for Injured.

Many deaths and permanent deformities are caused by the careless or ignorant handling of injured persons, according to Dr. Davis, in charge of the Red Cross car now parked at Main Street Station, who told the Boy Scouts how to care for injured persons at the John Marshall High School yesterday afternoon. He gave especially simple and valuable hints about caring for simple and compound fractures.

The most important thing to remember, he said, is never to try to pull a compound fracture back into place immediately after the injury, and always to pull a simple fracture. In the case of a compound fracture, especially if the bone is broken, the skin, dirt will get on the bone and if pulled into place, will cause poisoning. In the case of a simple fracture, on the other hand, the bone should be pulled into place before the muscles begin to swell, making the operation difficult and painful.

Dr. Davis laid a boy on the floor and put his leg in a splint as if the thigh were broken. He then showed how to carry the wounded man without giving him unnecessary pain. In reviving drowning persons, Dr. Davis emphasized the need of keeping the tongue out of the mouth. The tongue of an unconscious person collapses into the throat, and unless it is kept out of the way, no amount of artificial respiration will do any good.

Last night Dr. Davis spoke of first aid to the injured at the Railroad Y. M. C. A. This morning he will take his car to Newport News. The car is fitted up with all sorts of first aid equipment, and one-half is used as a lecture-room, and the other half for living quarters. It is sent by the Red Cross Society all over the country for educational purposes.

SEEK LOST HEIR AND BARON HERE

Any Good Sport Who Can Qualify May Rake Down 25,000,000 Bucks.

If there is in Richmond a middle-aged man of Irish extraction, answering in his personal peculiarities the police description now on file, all he has to do to reach out for a fortune of $25,000,000 and hear himself called "Baron" is to drop in at police headquarters and prove that he is Fredrick James Alfred Brown, mother's name, Trevillyn. "The good kind-hearted officials of the Police Department will then put him in touch with the family's solicitor at 2165 Queen Street, Toronto, Can.; his debts will be paid, his financial embarrassment relieved and money furnished for his quick passage home.

The essentials for a bona-fide "best seller" were contained in the brief notes relayed yesterday by Major Werner at police headquarters, asking that a search be made in Richmond for the missing heir to the huge fortune and venerable title. According to the letter, Brown, or Trevillyn, was last seen in Temple, Texas. At that time, he was clothed in a blue suit, long boots and gray hat with military cord of blue. There was some claim to the military cord of blue.

The real missing baron is five feet nine and three-quarter inches in height, has a round face, gray mustache, blue eyes, Roman nose, dimpled chin, is between forty-five and fifty years old, and is Irish. None but Irish need apply. When the real Brown, or Trevillyn, turns up, he will find himself possessed of an estate valued at $12,500,000 and something in odd change like $12,500,000. He will also be forty-ninth baron of the line.

ANNUAL REUNION AT WILLIAMSBURG

Dr. Davis, of Red Cross Society, Tells Boy Scouts How to Care for Injured.

Survivors of Fifteenth Virginia Regiment Will Gather Next Friday.

The fifty-second anniversary of the organization of the Fifteenth Regiment of Virginia Infantry will be observed by a reunion of the command Friday of this week, when the survivors of the gallant command will meet at Williamsburg.

Many of the earlier exploits of the regiment were staged in the Virginia peninsula, not far from Williamsburg. The Battle of Bathe, on June 10, 1861, the first real land conflict of the war, had the regiment as part of the fighting force, under General Magruder. In his defense against General McClellan. It also took part in the peninsula campaign later on.

The veterans and their friends will leave Richmond on the 9 o'clock Chesapeake and Ohio train Friday morning. Tickets and badges will be furnished comrades on the train. The Fifteenth Regiment Association has made an earnest request for as large an attendance as possible.

The interesting points in Williamsburg will be visited, after which dinner will be served. There is likely to be some speechmaking.

Will Contest Claim. Motion for judgment was docketed yesterday in the Circuit Court by C. K. How, et al against J. A. Smyth. The action being for $300, subject to a credit of $50. Notice of contest was given.

PRESBYTERY ACTS ON RESIGNATION

Dr. Lilly's Congregation Cited to Show Cause Why He Should Not Leave.

The resignation of Rev. D. Clay Lilly, D. D., from the pastorate of the Grace Street Presbyterian Church was accepted by the Presbytery of East Hanover at a meeting at the Presbyterian Publishing House yesterday morning. The congregation of the church will be cited to appear before the presbytery at 11 o'clock, to show cause why the pastoral relation should not be severed.

Dr. Lilly has received a call extending by the executive committee of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the United States and Canada, to be one of the conference leaders in the United States and Canada, which is to be instituted next fall. As the position is one of importance and offering a wider scope of activity than a pastorate, Dr. Lilly presented his resignation to the presbytery. He left the Laymen's Missionary Movement in 1909 to accept the pastorate here.

The campaign in which Dr. Lilly is to become one of the leaders is to last five years, and will have for its principal object the bringing of the annual contribution of the churches of North America to home and foreign missions up to $50,000,000. It also aims to promote a wider faith in the possibility of the evangelization of the world.

Preston Smith, colored, charged with stealing $1500 from David Cox, was found guilty of petty larceny and sent to jail for four months. Robert Richardson, colored, charged with disordered conduct, was fined $25 and made to give $100 security for sixty days.

Jackson Monument Association. The Stonewall Jackson Monument Association will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Lee Camp Hall. Dr. James P. Smith, president, requests a full attendance of the officers and members of the board of directors. Reports of importance are to be submitted and further plans laid for collecting funds for erection of an equestrian monument to Jackson in Richmond.

PARAGRAPH PULPIT THE VANGUARD

Unitarians are sometimes reproached because of the smallness of their numbers, but in the very nature of things this must be so. Representing the vanguard in the great army of religious thinkers, this company must necessarily be comparatively small. Five this guard decided, fifty years ago, to pitch tent and await the rest of the army. It might have enlisted the great host of that army under its banner, but in so doing it would have lost its opportunity for service as vanguard—Unitarian Publicity Committee. (Advertisement.)

GOVERNOR MANN OUT

Colonel McCabe Goes to England. Governor Mann ventured out of doors yesterday, and walked about the grounds of the Executive Mansion for a short time. While still a little wobbly, he found that his health is increasing steadily. A drive was in contemplation, but it was postponed to this morning, when he will again view the streets of his capital from an automobile. The governor wants to be at his office by the end of the week, but it is not probable that he will be permitted to do this.
